Un ALWAYS FISHING

Our contact in Toulouse has been receiving lots of emails from the French EveryStudent.com website. These aren't just students in France. They are writing from London and even French speaking Africa. The wide net that we've woven is even reaching beyond the borders as the Good News spreads. The questions he's receiving aren't different than those on the mind of your neighbor next door!

- "There's been something missing in me since I was little, ... I need a friend, someone I can confide in, someone I can count on or cry on"
- "How, after all the proof that science brings us every day, can you still believe that a God exists?"
- "What gives you strength in your spiritual life?"

God is working in each of these people's lives, using a tool they use every day to bring them closer to Him. The only difference is they were born in a country where 99.2% of the people they meet do not know Jesus as their savior! 6,700 every month from this spiritually starving country are seeing the Gospel right on their computers! To reach the same number, each staff member and intern in France would have to share the gospel with seven people every day, Sundays included.

Deux THE LONE PLAYER

Picture yourself at opening day in Yankee Stadium (or choose your favorite team). Cotton candy clouds hang in the bright blue sky. Your baseball cap on, you smell hot dogs and nachos while you listen to the crack of the bat. Assuming they're sold out, let's imagine that all of the fans sharing this moment with you are college students. The defensive players on the field would represent the number of U.S. staff Campus Crusade has to reach that number of college students. How many staff does Campus Crusade have to reach the students in Western Europe? Let's follow the same analogy. For Western Europe there would be only one person on the baseball team AND there would be three full stadiums! Let's help that lone player out! Using the internet will allow them to reach many people with comparitively little time and energy. The potential to impact people with the Gospel in our generation is great!

Trois SHARING OUR HEART

Having a newborn again brings great joy with great exhaustion. See the difference – Efrem in Daddy's arms (left) and in Mommy's arms (right)? God is good, and has a beautiful sense of humor! We have much to thank Him for.

Please pray...

- the Lord would multiply our sleep, and that Efrem sleeps through the night soon!
- that we're able to reach 80% of our support in time to go to training in June.
- for Silas' adjustment in having a baby brother.

His abundant blessings to you!
