John 1:9

Un EFREM GROWING UP

Efrem turned 5 this month, life moves fast. He invited a couple friends from school to celebrate, his first 'big' birthday party. We're not sure how or who did it, but both of the presents they brought were unwrapped before we could turn around! Think he was excited? The theme was spiderman, with masks, plates, gifts and of course a cake. Efrem is speaking more and more French. Our friend, Hubert, used to love practicing english with him, but sadly that is lost now because Efrem responds to him in French. One precious thing about Efrem is that he stops to enjoy the flowers along the way. He always has his eyes out and often stops to pick little daisies or dandelions to give to his mom. It's amazing a five year old who pays such attention to detail.

he and Rick talk through the final details of tonight's homeless outreach. Dan is in charge of the soup and Rick, the sandwiches. At noon they meet with other staff and guy from his bible study on campus to talk with students. Today they spent time with three biology students and a German guy named Felix visiting his girlfriend. The latter is very open, and hears the gospel fully explained. Dan asks if he could pray for him, which he gladly accepts. Later this evening Dan takes the hot soup he's prepared to join the small group going into town to share a meal with homeless people. It's not simply a distribution, but a chance to eat together and talk. Tonight they meet a man named Christian, whose story brings tears to the eyes. They try to think of how else they can help him, bring him a blanket or find a warm place to sleep. The boys are asleep when Dan gets home. It's been a long day...

Deux A DAY IN THE LIFE - DAN

It's Thursday morning and Rennes is cool and gray. It takes 15 minutes for Dan to drive up to neighboring Betton, thankfully most traffic is in the other direction. The men on staff meet every other week to read the bible and pray together. Although everyone is his senior, this was Dan's initiative so he selects the passages and leads the time. After the meeting Praise...

- for the chance for Dan to play bass guitar with the praise band (below far right)

Please pray...

- for Felix and Christian, that God would work in their hearts and provide for their needs.
